

Vcaps capsules are two-piece capsules made from cellulosic raw materials

Capsule Products

Vcaps® Capsules

Vcaps® capsules are two-piece capsules made from cellulosic raw materials that satisfy vegetarian and cultural needs. Vcaps capsules are an attractive, preservative-free, all natural dosage form that retains all the advantages of standard two-piece capsules: easy to swallow, effectively mask taste and odor, and allow product visibility. This capsule of plant origin meets the strict dietary needs of customers that choose vegetarian, as well as Kosher lifestyles.

Do you want to broaden the "natural" appeal of your products?

Customers who take dietary supplements will be "naturally" drawn to Vcaps. With Vegetarian Society approval, as well as Kosher certification, you can tap into the growing sales potential for natural products. Having an "all natural" product addition will also build the trust and value of your entire brand offering.

Can you take better advantage of the growing market for dietary supplements?

Adding a line of products that use Vcaps capsules will not only give you more impact in the market, but you will also benefit from CAPSUGEL's efforts to communicate the significant customer benefits of this exciting product line. Vcaps capsules are advertised extensively in consumer and trade publications, and are promoted at leading industry trade shows.

Sep 7, 2005

Formulated with HPMC (Hydroxypropyl Methylcellulose), Vcaps capsules are also available with natural printing inks that can uniquely brand and identify your products. In addition, Vcaps run smoothly on all high-speed and semi-automatic filling machines.

As with all CAPSUGEL products, you can be assured of the highest quality product and service. Vcaps capsules are manufactured in a GMP facility that meets certification criteria. Computerized process control stations monitor key manufacturing process; certificate of analysis is included in every production batch.

Vcaps Capsules Size Information
 Download a Vcaps brochure.
 See CAPSUGEL's Dietary Supplements Product & Business Development Services.
 Contact Us for more information or to arrange a technical presentation.

Copy